Nicole Houck of Union (left), a student at New River Community and Technical College’s Greenbrier Valley Campus, is given a demonstration of the voting machine she will be using when she votes in the Nov. 4th election by Trudy Oliver of Charleston (center), a representative of the Secretary of State’s office, who conducted voter registration and demonstrations of the voting machine at the GVC on Wednesday and Thursday.

Wanda Johnson (right), program coordinator with the office of student services on the GVC, organized the voter registration campaign on the local campus and noted that students from Pocahontas, Greenbrier, Monroe, Summers, and Fayette counties took advantage of the opportunity to register and to see the demonstration over the two day period.

Oliver also registered students at nearby Greenbrier East High School in Fairlea where it is estimated that nearly 100 per cent of those students eligible to vote in November are registered to vote.

Deadline to register to vote in West Virginia is Oct. 14.
Also visiting the New River Greenbrier Valley Campus on Wednesday were representatives of Dabney S. Lancaster Community College in Clifton Forge, Va. who met with potential students for the nursing program at the neighboring college. DSLCC and New River’s Greenbrier Valley Campus have a reciprocity agreement which allows select students at both colleges to take classes at the other college and pay only in state tuition.
