Train-the-Trainer Course

Become a Building Science expert, and pass it on!

Become a dynamic part of the green revolution! The single largest hurdle to transforming the marketplace and the economy for “green jobs” is the lack of Building Performance Institute (BPI) qualified trainers. Classes are available nationwide, whether you are already BPI-certified or not. You’ll learn how to motivate and inspire the next generation of energy efficiency workers, while arming them with the knowledge they’ll need to reenergize our economy.

Learn from top trainers in the field!

New River Community and Technical College trains students, adults, and business owners to take advantage of the growing market opportunities in energy efficiency and green jobs. New River Community and Technical College offers high quality training programs, to meet the diverse needs of this quickly growing industry.

Date: September 14-18, 2009
Location: Beckley, WV

To Register, visit www.psdconsulting.com/t3

Performance Systems has been at the forefront of the Home Performance industry, having worked on energy efficiency programs since the 1970s. We have implemented some of the most innovative energy efficiency programs in the country. Performance Systems trainers are nationally recognized and second to none. Our combination of training techniques and curriculum results in very high pass rates, far exceeding the industry average.