

AUTHORIZATION FOR RELEASE OF FINANCIAL INFORMATION

In accordance with the Federal Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA), all information regarding a student's financial aid record is considered private between the student and the College and requires a written release for discussion of this information with a third party. Even parents or guardians cannot obtain information about your financial aid from the College, because College officials may not legally release such information. For a variety of reasons, you may wish to partially waive this protection and permit release of some types of information to certain people.
